Course Description:

This special 'travelling' course ties in a wide array of fantasy literature written in or about Britain. It explores some of the earliest descriptions of the land which informed writers such as Geoffrey of Monmouth who produced the first "popular" history of King Arthur, through the Gothic period, and twentieth century post-war fantasy writing such as Lord of the Rings and C.S. Lewis's Narnia series. More recent works including the Harry Potter series and the Game of Thrones series will also be included. The texts are considered in the context of the locations where they were written or the places they describe, from the haunting castle ruins of Tintagel in Cornwall, the prehistoric sites of Anglesey (Ynys Môn), Stonehenge and Avebury, the imposing architecture of Tolkien's Oxford and Horace Walpole's Strawberry Hill House near London. (This may change subject to availability). Students cannot take both this course and LIT 5405.

Prerequisites:

ARW 4195 or GEP 4180

Aims and Objectives:

- To explore how the modern Fantasy genre fits into a long and varied literary tradition;
- To study the advantages and disadvantages of writing in a mode or a genre;
- To examine intertextuality and influence in literary history and practice;
- To engage with a range of different critical approaches;
- To study the significance of the relationship between Fantasy and popular British culture, and to recognise the genre's impact on Britain's contemporary identity, culture and creative industries.

Programme Outcomes:

5Ai, 5Aii; 5Bi, 5Ci, 5Cii, 5Di
